It's time to get excited about Girl Scouts of Eastern South Carolina's summer resident camps. While most girls sell enough cookies to pay their way to Camp Low Country or Sandy Ridge, some girls simply can't afford the $250 it takes to pay for a traditional week at camp. We need your help to let these deserving Girl Scouts enjoy the summer resident camp experience.

At Mini-Camp, campers will do a variety of camp activities similar to the camp activities offered during traditional camp. Activities may include swimming, arts and crafts, games, songs and nature activities.

At traditional camp, campers will participate in their chosen camp activities. Campers will also have a cookout, attend camp fires, enjoy themed events and participate in living unit and all-camp activities.

Equestrian campers will participate in horse-related activities such as feeding, grooming, riding and barn upkeep, in addition to camp activities.

Adventure camps take campers out of their back yards and into new places, such as Campers Island for kayaking and nature tours; Charlotte, N.C. for whitewater rafting; and to Atlanta for factory tours, outdoor cooking and granite exploration.

We hope we can count on your donation to send more deserving girls to Girl Scouts of Eastern South Carolina's summer resident camps.
